Introduction

Statement of purpose

It is the commitment of Wycliffe Associates to support only Bible translations that use accurate and literal common language terms for “Father” and “Son” when referring to God and Jesus.

The purpose of this guide is to help the church review their Bible translation to check that all instances of the word “Father” that refer to God are translated correctly.

About this review guide

This document provides a table showing every instance of “Father” in the New Testament that refers to God the Father. Reviewers will check each instance in their translation and record what word was used to translate “Father.”

Different meanings for the word “father”

The word “father” has several meanings in the New Testament.

1. Biological, male parent

- When used literally, the term "father" refers to a person's male parent.
- Example:
 - Matthew 1:1-2, “Abraham was the father of Isaac, and Isaac the father of Jacob”

2. Ancestor

- The terms "father" and "forefather" are often used to refer to a male ancestor of a certain person or people group. This could also be translated as "ancestor" or "ancestral father."
- Example:
 - Matthew 3:9, “Abraham for our father”

3. Someone older

- “Father” is sometimes used as a polite way of referring to an older man.
- Example:
 - 1 John 2:12, 14, “I am writing to you, fathers”

4. Spiritual father

- The apostle Paul figuratively called himself the "father" of those he had helped to become Christians through sharing the gospel with them.
- Example:
 - 1 Corinthians 4:15, “I became your father in Christ Jesus through the gospel”

5. Source of a characteristic

- The expression "the father of" can figuratively refer to a person who is the source of something.
- Examples:
 - John 8:44, "The devil ... is a liar and the father of lies"
 - 2 Corinthians 1:3, "The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ ... is the Father of mercies"

6. God the Father of his people

- The terms "God the Father" and "heavenly Father" refer to Yahweh, the one true God. God is called the father of his covenant people. In the Old Testament his covenant people were the Israelites. After God the Father sent his Son, Jesus, to die for the sins of his people, anyone who believes in God the Son becomes a child of God the Father, and God the Holy Spirit comes to live in that person.
- Example:
 - Romans 1:7, "Grace to you and peace from God our Father"

7. God the Father of Jesus

- God is also referred to as the Father of Jesus.
- God is three persons: God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit. Each one of these persons is fully and equally God, and yet they are only one God. This is a mystery that humans cannot fully understand.
- The Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit have the same character.
- The Father sent the Son (Jesus) into the world, and the Father and the Son send the Holy Spirit to his people.
- Though the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are equally God, in most instances in the New Testament, the word "God" implies "God the Father."

Translating the word "Father"

When referring to God as "God the Father," it is important that translators use the same word for "father" as they do when referring to a biological, male parent. As stated above, the word "father" means something different in each case; that is, God did not father Jesus or his people in the way that a human male fathers a child. However, God has chosen to use the word "father" to reveal himself and his character. It is the responsibility of Christian preachers and teachers to explain to their churches the meaning of "God the Father."

“God the Father” terms table

How to use the terms table

This section has every instance in the New Testament that refers to God as “Father.” As reviewers read through their Bible, they may notice that there are verses with the word “father” that are not in this list. In those verses the word “father” has a different meaning than what is being reviewed here. The purpose of this review is to check the word “father” only when it refers to God.

The first column in the table includes the verse reference. In a few cases there is a note explaining a difficulty in the translation.

The second column includes the Greek text; the word for “Father” or “God the Father” is in bold letters. The purpose of including the Greek is to give a reference for those who can read Greek and also to demonstrate that the decision of Wycliffe Associate to use the word “Father” is supported by the original language.

The third column includes the text from the ULB with the word “Father” or “God the Father” in bold letters. Usually the complete text of the verse is not included. The phrase that includes “Father” or “God the Father” is included. Sometimes there are ellipses (...) in the table “Father” or “God the Father” occurs more than once in a verse. If it is hard to understand the text included in the chart, refer to the source text used for the translation.

The fourth column is for recording how “Father” or “God the Father” was translated in each verse of the Bible you are reviewing.

The fifth column is for comments and questions. For each verse, ask the following questions. If the answer is “no” to any of them, write about it in the fifth column. Also if there are questions or issues to discuss with the reviewers, write them in this column.

- In this verse, does the word used in your translation for “Father” normally refer to a literal, biological, male parent?
- In this verse, is this the same word for “Father” that was used in previous passages?
- If it is not the same word, does it also normally refer to a literal, biological, male parent?
- If your language has a way of showing that your word for “Father” refers to God (for example, in English the word “father” is capitalized when it refers to God), has this been done in this verse?
- If you fill this document out on a computer, and you want to write about a verse in the comment section, put your cursor in the comment section. Then hit the ENTER key on your keyboard until the cursor is next to the verse you want to write about. Also, write the verse reference with your comment.

Sample Table

This sample table shows what a table may look like after it has been completed. It also shows what kinds of comments a reviewer may make and where those comments would be written.
